5 Bond Ordinances Totaling $1 Million On Township Agenda

At its meeting this Wednesday, June 5 (postponed from Monday) Township Committee has an unusually large number of items on its agenda. Just for starters, there are eight routine items on the "consent agenda," ranging from music amplification requests to accepting the bid for road repair materials, that are expected to be approved en masse.

Committee is also scheduled to introduce five bond ordinances totalling more than $1 million to implement the 1991 capital budget.

One appropriates $495,000 for the reconstruction of Alexander Road, of which $230,000 is expected to be reimbursed as a grant from the New Jersey Department of Transportation. Another calls for the appropriation of $200,000 for the conversion of the Pretty Brook sewerage treatment plant to a pumping station. Part of this cost will be assessed to the developers of property that will benefit from the conversion.

Various capital improvements and acquisitions of equipment planned by joint Borough/Township agencies account for another $334,000, and road improvements in the Township an additional $186,000.

There will be public hearings on four ordinances that have already been introduced. One authorizes the Township to accept a $750,000 Green Acres loan to assist with the acquisition of a 32-acre portion of the Tusculum property that would link Community Park North to the south and the John Witherspoon Woods to the north.

Another requires restaurants and other establishments where food is cooked and served to install grease interceptors. The purpose is to keep grease from clogging the

Princeton Day School Senior Killed By Amtrak Train Sunday Morning

From triumph to tragedy.

Students and friends of 18-year-old Jonathan Pope, who was to have graduated next Sunday from Princeton Day School, were stunned and saddened upon learning of his suicide Sunday morning.

Pope was killed instantly when he dropped or jumped from a Clarksville Road railroad overpass bridge onto a speeding Amtrak train. A spokesman for the West Windsor police reported that the police investigation shows that Pope had jumped intentionally.

On Thursday morning there will be a brief assembly for the entire school at which one of the PDS deans, the Rev. Mr. Carl Reimers and a friend of Jonathan's, will

New Route Announced for This Year's P-Rade

Princeton University's Alumni Council has announced a new route for this year's Reunions "P-rade" — one that is shorter, easier to navigate, and allows more space for staging. The P-Rade will take place entirely on campus, starting from in front of Nassau Hall and ending up at the Poe/Pardee athletic fields east of Elm Drive and west of Washington Road.

The Alumni Council has also issued an invitation to the Princeton community to watch this colorful spectacle from several designated viewing areas on campus. They include the plaza between Firestone Library and the Princeton University Chapel; the area in front of Dillon Gym by Elm Drive, and along both sides of Elm Drive enroute to Poe and Pardee Fields.

Wearing orange and black blazers or costumes, and propelled along by the music from about a dozen area high school bands and the euphoria of "Going Back to Nassau Hall," more than 55 reunion classes pass by in the course of about three hours. Eight to 10 thousand marchers are expected, including spouses and children, who also don orange and black for the occasion.

The P-Rade begins Saturday at 2, heralded by University Band trumpeters and the ringing of the Nassau Hall bell just before the hour. It is traditionally led by the 25th Reunion Class, which this year is the Class of 1966. Then comes the Old Guard, graduates of the years before 1925 whose numbers are dwindling but whose will to return yet one more time is roundly cheered all along the P-Rade route.

The Old Guard and members of the classes of 1926 through the 1940's will assemble under class banners on either side of the walk leading from the FitzRandolph Gates on Nassau Street to Nassau Hall. After the 25th Reunion Class — at the peak of their professional and personal lives and usually the most numerous — have passed through with their spouses and children, the older classes join the line of march, which

Concern Rises That DOT Plans to Turn Rtes. 27 & 206 into 4-Lane Highways

Concern is mounting in Princeton that the New Jersey Department of Transportation is planning to turn Princeton-Kingston Road and Bayard Lane-Stockton Street into four-lane highways.

The concern stems from two sources: the NJDOT's plans to rebuild and widen Harry's Brook bridge on the Princeton-Kingston Road, and planning documents released by the DOT to municipalities in connection with the adoption of a code regulating access onto state highways. Both Princeton-Kingston Road (Route 27) and Bayard Lane-Stockton Street (Route 206) are state highways.

J.B. Smith of Princeton-Kingston Road has printed up a broadside in a vibrant, attention-getting pink to alert Princeton residents to what he describes as NJDOT "plans to make Routes 206 and 27 four-lane highways through Princeton." The broadside shows profiles (a cross section) of Route 27 and Route 206 widened.

For Route 27, the cross section shows two 12-foot travel lanes in either direction; a 14-foot left-turn lane in the middle of the road; and two 12-foot shoulders, plus two 15-foot sidewalk areas on either side. This amounts to a 116-foot total right of way.

For Route 206, the profile is the same, minus the 14-foot left-turn lane, for a 106-foot right of way. The broadside states that "The DOT like many N.J. state departments is essentially autonomous. Its mission is to move more traffic more rapidly. It has complete control over Nassau Street-Princeton-Kingston Road (Route 27) and Bayard Lane-Stockton Street (Route 206)."

The broadside goes on to say that the best way to oppose [the four-laning] is by a large showing at hearings, and urges residents to attend Township Committee meeting this Wednesday at 7 p.m. as well as the Planning Board meeting on Monday. It also urges residents to write Gov. Florio, NJDOT Commissioner Thomas Downs, Senator Gerald Stockman and Assemblymen Naples and Watson.

The broadside states: "The DOT's plan to replace the Harry's Brook Bridge on sewer collector system. If adopted, the ordinance will go into effect on August 1 and fines will be imposed for non-compliance.

Still another ordinance establishes a Township Police Committee to handle citizen complaints about police actions and sets forth procedures, and the fourth ordinance abolishes garbage collection districts in the Township.

A resolution concerning adoption of the 1991 municipal budget is on the agenda, as is an agreement to settle a lawsuit arising out of a change in the zoning in the office-research zone off Bunn Drive. Dr. and Mrs. William Lowe of Chatham, owners of a 17-acre tract diagonally across Bunn Drive from Princeton Community Village, sued the Township in 1986 when Committee, at the recommendation of the Planning Board, reduced the allowable floor-area-ratio (FAR) throughout the office-research zone. The Lowes had planned four office buildings of about 32,000 square feet each on the 17-acre tract, but the change in FAR reduced this amount by close to 50 percent.

In work session this Wednesday, Committee will discuss the Harry's Brook bridge replacement planned by the New Jersey Department of Transportation. Many Township residents are expected to be on hand to hear the Township Engineer report on the status of this replacement and to make their views known.

Reunions

will go around the back of Nassau Hall by Stanhope Hall. As the P-Rade passes, later classes fall in, one by one, the major reunion years having bigger turnouts and accompanied by a band or a float.

Instead of heading east along McCosh Walk and through the 1879 arch to cross Washington Road at Prospect Avenue on the way to the baseball field east of Palmer Stadium, this year's P-Rade will come through the arches joining Chancellor Green and East Pyne Halls across from the Firestone Library plaza and turning right will head west along McCosh Walk past Whig and Clio Halls to Elm Drive at West College.

Turning left, the marchers will go directly down Elm Drive past Dillon Gym and the tennis courts to Poe Field, where the traditional annual meeting of the Princeton University Alumni Association will be held. The traditional alumni-varsity baseball game will be played as usual at Clarke Field.

According to Daniel White, director of the Alumni Council, the purpose of changing the P-Rade route was to make it more enjoyable for Princetonians, guests and spectators. "In recent years it has taken too long to complete the parade because of large gaps that arise frequently in the line of march," Mr. White said.

He cited the large number of alumni and family, about 11,000, who attend, and the several spots along the former route that were difficult to navigate as the principal reasons for the change.

Climax of Reunions

The P-Rade is the climax of Reunions Weekend, which begins on Thursday as the first of the orange and black costumed alumni arrive. Most of the activities, including alumni-faculty forums that are open to the public, are scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

The topics on Friday focus on education ("Teaching as a Marginal Profession: How Did It Get That Way? What Can We Do About It?" at 2 in Dodds Auditorium Robertson Hall); international politics, ("New, Newer, Newest: Shifting World Order" also at 2 in McCosh 10; and economics ("Are Trade Blocs a Threat?" at 4 in McCosh 50).

The 16th annual Dante Reunion Seminar for all former and graduating students of Robert Hollander's course on Dante will meet Friday from 4 to 6:30; the text is a passage from Paradiso, and the class will be followed by a reception.

On Saturday, the topics for the alumni-faculty forums range from the savings and loan crisis to health care reform. At 10 a panel of former Princeton University deans will speak on "From 'In Loco Parentis' to 'Political Correctness': Four Decades of Deaning at Princeton." Throughout the weekend there are tours of such attractions as the stained glass windows in the chapel, the sculpture and the trees on campus, and the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory off Route 1.

On the lighter side, there will be concerts and performances by campus groups, arch sings by undergraduate a cappella singing groups, exhibits, receptions and special interest gatherings. Alumni soccer, lacrosse and softball games are scheduled as well as a track meet for all ages.

On Sunday, the Rt. Rev. John Coburn, Class of 1936, retired Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, will be the speaker at a 10 a.m. service in the Princeton University Chapel. William Crowe Jr., retired chair of the Joint Chiefs of Staff who received his Ph.D. from Princeton in 1965, will speak at the Baccalaureate Service, the interfaith service held in the Chapel which officially ends the school year at 2 p.m.

The Baccalaureate Service is open to members of the graduating class and their families but will be broadcast to seating in front of the chapel.

Princeton University's 224th commencement exercises will be held in front of Nassau Hall at 11 on Tuesday morning. In the event of rain, commencement exercises will be held in Jadwin Gym.

Princeton Office Vacancy Ranks 10th Lowest in U.S.

The Cushman & Wakefield first quarter 1991 office space survey, "Across the Nation," reports a 0.9 percentage point increase in the vacancy rate for the Princeton area. Despite this increase, Princeton's first quarter 1991 vacancy rate of 16.3 percent ranks as the tenth lowest of all non-central business districts surveyed nationally.

Historically, the 16.3 percent vacancy rate is up from the fourth quarter 1990 figure of 15.4 percent and represents only a minimal decline from the first quarter 1990 figure of 16.5 percent.

"With the limited amount of new construction that has come on line during the first quarter of 1991 (60,000 square feet) and the lack of any significant amount of space scheduled for the rest of the year, any available Class-A space on the market will quickly be absorbed," said Donald P. Eisen, senior director and branch manager of Cushman & Wakefield's Central New Jersey office.

Mr. Eisen noted that over the last eight quarters only 725,000 square feet of new construction came on line.

Second Ass't. Principal Will Be Hired at PHS

Over the objection of one member of the School Board and several members of the audience, the District will go ahead with plans to hire a second assistant principal at the high school. Most members of the Board voiced approval of the move.

The exception was Deborah Curtis, who said, "In light of cutbacks, including the choral program [at the middle school], it would be hard to convince me we need another administrator at the high school.

During the past year, the high school operated with one assistant principal, Owen Snyder, while Marylu Coviello, who had been the other assistant principal, served as interim principal. Dr. Coviello was recently named high school principal.

With no motion against the hiring, the Administration is expected to move quickly in order to fill the post by the end of June. A regional search is planned.

"If we can't get a candidate selected by June, before the Board goes out of session, it is unlikely a person would give up a position on a promise that the Board would approve the recommendation in September," said School Board President Joel Cooper.

The assistant principal's position will be in the $70,000 salary range.

Assistant Superintendent Robert Rader, in announcing the filing of the new school budget as amended by the Borough and Township, mentioned that the $10,700 put back into co-curricular activities at the middle school would be placed, instead, in the surplus account. Asked who made this decision, he replied that it was an administrative one.

Several members of the Board objected to the decision, including Robert Hillas, who said, "I was opposed from the beginning to the $10,700, but if we felt that strongly we should have nipped it in the bud. I feel this is part of the deal. It would not be operating in good faith to roll the money back into surplus."

Ann B. Coiro, Allen Grossman, and Gerald Groves supported Mr. Hillas' point of view.

A different opinion was offered by Dr. Cooper. "I believe the Board of Education does program. The municipality does not do the program; it does taxes. I would much rather see the recommendation of any program by the Board."

Mr. Rader agreed to transfer the money out of surplus and into an undistributed salary account for co-curricular activities.

Three middle school students presented the Administration and Board with a 163-signature petition asking that the fifth and sixth grade choral program be restored. The program was one of the earliest victims of the cuts in the school budget.

"I was disappointed in the decision to discontinue chorus," said Dr. Groves. "I would like you to honor the request." Mr. Grossman said that this was one of the reasons he wanted the $10,700 in the budget. "I hope we consider this and other activities at the middle school when we consider how to use the undistributed funds."

School Superintendent Carol Choye said the chorus had done a wonderful job, and that it made her sad to discontinue it. She added that if the School District received a desegregation grant requested from the State, perhaps some of the money might be used to fund the chorus.

"I don't want to hold out any false hopes," she told the youngsters. "If we get money from the grant we will reconsider."

become provost of Spelman in January, 1990.

"We are very excited by Ruth Simmons' decision to return to Princeton," said University President Harold T. Shapiro. "Her years of service to faculty and to the larger academic mission of the University and her experience with budgets and planning will be crucial to the provost's office.

"Most important, however, Ruth is known among members of this community for her intelligence, her integrity, her wisdom and her willingness to work hard to serve the highest purposes a university represents," President Shapiro added.

Ms. Simmons came to Princeton in 1983 as director of studies at Butler College, one of the newly established undergraduate residential colleges. She became acting director of the Afro-American Studies Program in 1985 and assistant dean of the faculty in 1986. She was promoted to associate dean in 1987.

Among her responsibilities as vice provost, Ms. Simmons will assist academic and administrative offices with planning related to budgets, staffing and physical plant. She will be responsible for integrating department plans into larger University-wide planning efforts and for coordinating short-term with long-term planning processes.

Ms. Simmons will report to Hugo Sonnenschein, who assumes the office of provost this summer. A former member of the faculty in Princeton's Economics Department, Prof. Sonnenschein is leaving his position as dean of the School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Pennsylvania.

After earning a 1973 Ph.D. in Romance languages and literatures from Harvard, Ms. Simmons taught at the University of New Orleans and California State University at Northridge. She held administrative posts at New Orleans, Northridge and USC.

Princeton Man Charged In Lewdness Incidents

Township police have charged a Princeton resident whom they believe was involved in a half-dozen incidents of lewdness between May 20 and 28.

Marcio D. Prado, 26, of Knoll Drive, has been charged with two counts of lewdness, after he was identified by one of his victims, a 19-year-old Princeton University student. Police said that Prado had exposed himself twice to the same victim. He was scheduled to appear this week in Township court.

Since his arrest last Wednesday, Prado has been issued another summons charging him with lewdness. Lt. Anthony Gaylord said. Additional charges are possible, he said.

"We think about six different incidents took place," Lt. Gaylord commented."Some were not reported." Most took place, he added, along the Delaware and Raritan Canal towpath between Washington Road and Harrison Street.

"We know three or four of the victims were University students; another incident involved juveniles in a canoe," Lt. Gaylord continued. Most of his victims were either riding bicycles or jogging when Prado would appear and expose himself. The physical description of the suspect had been "basically, all the same." Lt. Gaylord said.

Prado had allegedly exposed himself to a woman last Monday evening along the canal. Two days later, Ptl. Arthur Villaruz had asked one of the victims to meet with him in the area of the towpath to show him where the incident had taken place and to provide him with any additional information.

The victim met with Ptl. Villaruz, who was in plain clothes. As they talked, she told the officer that she had just seen the suspect walking on the Towpath. The officer borrowed the victim's bicycle and rode after the suspect, who was now heading back in the direction of the victim. Lt. Gaylord said that he had smiled at the victim as he had passed her.

Ptl. Villaruz rode up to the suspect, identified himself and placed Prado under arrest. Prado, positively identified by the victim, was taken to police headquarters, processed and later released in $250 cash bail.

Yes, May Was Hot

Said one walker to another, as they dragged one foot behind the other down a Borough street on a humid, 90-degree-plus afternoon last week, "I'm about to break into the breast stroke."

Yes, it was all that hot, and the humidity was perhaps a smidgin less than your typical rain forest. Other than noting there were no volcanic eruptions or earthquakes in town, there was little good to say about the weather.

This was the hottest May since 1900, said Princeton's weather historian, David Ludlum, with temperatures eight degrees above normal.

We can blame that old foe, the Bermuda high, which stayed off the coast for two weeks, stubbornly refusing to move. It blocked movement of cool air eastbound, explained Mr. Ludlum, allowing warm, humid air to continue pumping in from the Gulf of Mexico.

"Will the rest of the summer be hot?" we asked Mr. Ludlum. "I'll be hot," he said. "I'm going to Mexico to see the eclipse."

The July 11 eclipse, he said, will be the greatest eclipse in this century, the longest until the year 2142. Princeton will see 15 percent coverage, he said, but in Mexico there will be 100 percent, and the sun will be blocked out seven minutes.

proached from behind by an assailant who put his arm around his neck and forced him against the side of the library building. "Give me your wallet! Give me your money," the assailant ordered. He removed the victim's wallet containing $150 and fled, accompanied by a black female in her 20s.

"We don't know the race of the assailant," said Capt. Hanley. The only description police have, he said, is that he is about 5-8. The victim, who was shaken by the incident, is not an employee or a student of the University.

Driving Hot-Wired Car; Trenton Youths Charged

Two Trenton teenagers, 15 and 13, driving what police learned later was a stolen 1989 Chevrolet that they had hotwired in Trenton, have been charged with juvenile delinquency, following an incident here early Friday morning.

Around 3 in the morning, Sgt. Anthony Federico had observed the car failing to stop for a flashing red light at Paul Robeson Place and Witherspoon Street. When the officer attempted to stop the car, it sped off up Nassau Street toward the intersection of Stockton where the driver lost control and the car spun out.

A passenger jumped out and attempted to run away but the 13-year-old was soon apprehended a short distance away by Ptl. Dan Brown. Meanwhile, the driver of the stalled car managed to drive over the sidewalk and head down Mercer Street toward Lawrence Township. Sgt. Federico tried to keep the car's taillights in view, Capt. Hanley said, but he lost sight of it.

Soon after police in surrounding areas were notified, Trenton police responded to report the car had been abandoned in Trenton and recovered.

Taken into custody, the 13-year-old gave police the name and address of the driver. Borough and Trenton police went to the suspect's house where he was arrested and later released to his parents. The 13-year-old was detained in a juvenile facility in Ewing after police were unable to contact a family member.

Four Buildings Entered On University Campus

Three dormitory buildings and the student infirmary on the University campus were entered last week, Borough police report. Township police listed an entry on the Hun School campus, two homes entered and an attempted burglary at another home.

Police believe a door lock was slipped to enter a student's room in Patton Hall during the weekend. Among the numerous articles stolen were a portable stereo tape player valued at $200, a $30 telephone and a number of clothing items valued at approximately $300.

A portable compact disc player valued at $300 was stolen from an unlocked room in Walker Hall, and on Friday police received a report of a theft at Wu Hall. Taken from a stand in the hall's TV room was a VCR valued at $525. A television set was left behind.

During a four-day period, an intruder entered the McCosh Infirmary, forced open a locked closet door and removed $60 from an unlocked cash box.

Township police report that a student's locked dorm room on the Hun School campus was entered between 8 Thursday evening and 1 the next morning. Stolen were five stereo compact discs valued at $80 and a $20 stereo remote control.

Damaged during the entry were two stereo speakers valued at $700 and a set of designer sheets worth $50.

Two homes in the Township were entered on the same day and about the same time, but in each case nothing appears to have been taken.

A basement window was broken to enter a home on Rollingmead between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. and although Lt. Anthony Gaylord reports "the house was ransacked," nothing is missing. Between 9:15 and 3:55 the same day, a home on Shady Brook Road was entered, searched but not ransacked. Again, nothing is missing. Entry was gained by breaking a pane of glass in a storm window, enabling the thief to reach and break an inside window.

"It is possible that the same person was involved in both entries," Lt. Gaylord admitted.

Attempted Burglary

There was an attempted burglary early Sunday morning in a home on White Pine Lane.

According to Lt. Gaylord, when the occupant arrived home at 3:06, she heard what she thought were persons on the second floor. When she saw two white males exit the house, she called police.

Police arrived but a check of the area failed to uncover the suspects. They are described as both between 25 and 27, with dark hair, wearing blue jeans. One was approximately 5-10, the second about 6-0. One of the suspects wore a cutoff sweat shirt and had a tattoo on his upper arm.

Nothing was taken. "We don't know how entry was gained," Lt. Gaylord said.

Weekly Bicycle Report: Four Stolen, One Arrest

Four more bicycles were reported stolen last week but police may have ended the career of one thief when they arrested a 17-year-old Hillsborough Township youth this week.

The youth was observed Monday by Sgt. Donald Dawson putting a bicycle in a car on University Place. What caught the officer's eye was the bike still had a lock attached to it.

The youth was subsequently charged with juvenile deliquency (possession of a stolen bicycle) when he admitted stealing the 12-speed bike from the University campus.

The youth was also charged with possession of a stolen radar detector. Police report that the detector's serial number had been filed off. The suspect told police that he had purchased the detector in north Jersey for $10.

In the Borough, a 1991 Pontiac owned by a Plainsboro resident was spray painted last week while it was parked in a private lot off Maclean Street. There was no estimate of the damage.

Back in the Township, police report that the electric circuit board and panel of a home under construction on Foulet Drive were smashed by vandals, causing about $100 in damage. It was discovered last Wednesday morning.

Engine Fire Halts Car On Pretty Brook Road

A Princeton resident driving on Pretty Brook Road ran into some problems Saturday evening.

First the car, a 1988 Olds, began to stall. Then the driver heard a banging noise. That was sufficient warning to pull off the road into a parking area.

As the driver began to exit, the car's engine compartment started to burn. When two pieces of fire apparatus and seven firemen arrived shortly after 9, the engine was completely engulfed in flames and the car had to be towed.

Cause of the fire? Not determined, police said.

Two Residents Are Fined In Township Traffic Court

Two Princeton residents were fined last week in Township traffic court.

Peter G. Guthrie, 330 Jefferson Road, was fined $75 for careless driving and Richard A. Turner, 3226 Princeton Landing, paid $215 as an unlicensed driver.

In criminal court, Joseph Moore Jr., 47 Lee Avenue, Trenton, was fined a total of $705 and was sentenced to 30 days in the Mercer County Workhouse for possession of narcotic paraphernalia.

All of the victims were students.

In other campus thefts, a student's $175 Olympus 35mm camera was stolen during the ten minutes she had left it on a table inside the Cap and Gown Club, and a graduate student reported the theft of his bookbag overnight from his room in the Graduate College. Total value of the bag, the books, calculator and other items it contained: $115.

A vending machine in a women's rest room in the Woodrow Wilson School was pried open last week, netting the thief $6.75 in coins.

A Township resident who is an employee in an office in the One Palmer Square building left her purse unattended at times during the day last week.

She did not realize her wallet containing $428 had been stolen until a custodian found it in a stairwell and returend it to her.

---

Two black female teenagers, both approximately 17 and thin, are suspects in the shoplifting theft of a $16 T-shirt last week at a clothing store on Hulfish Street.

Police report the suspects are believed to have concealed the shirt before leaving the store.

A straw handbag and a brown wallet containing about $50 were stolen last week from a 1985 Honda which was parked overnight in the driveway of the owner on Library Place. Nothing was taken from a 1986 Mercedes which was also parked in the drive. Both cars were unlocked, police report.

$40,000 Rug Recovered

That $40,000 Oriental rug that was reported stolen last week from the lobby of the Ivy Club on Propsect Avenue: it's been recovered.

According to Capt. Peter Hanley, it was "found mysteriously" rolled up in the dining room of the former Elm Club, now called the Dial-Elm-Cannon Club. A DEC club officer, he said, called police to report where the rug was.

Capt. Hanley described the case as "still open" but said Ivy Club officers indicated they do not want to press charges.

Moving Car Hit by Sign On Rt. 206 near Farrand

It was a freak accident.

As an East Windsor driver was traveling on Route 206 South Thursday morning near the vicinity of Farrand Road, the right corner of her windshield was struck by an airborn road sign.

Police report that a four-foot square Flagman Ahead sign flew up and struck the car. Lt. Anthony Gaylord commented that probably the wind current generated from a passing truck in front had blown the sign free from its anchor. Workmen for the Department of Transportation were working in the area at the time. The driver was not injured.

Previously, she was a congressional correspondent for PBS-TV's MacNeil-Lehrer Newshour, for which she received the Weintal Prize for Diplomatic Reporting in 1988.

She was also honored, in 1987, as the first broadcast journalist to win the Everett McKinley Dirksen Award for distinguished reporting of Congress. ### New Equipment Is Added In Radiology Department

Princeton Medical Center has acquired new equipment in its Radiology Department that should eliminate scheduling delays.

The Department has acquired a second computerized tomographic scanner. This is imaging equipment that digitizes the picture created by ionized radiation passing through the body. The lateral view of the body is computer-enhanced and displayed on either a screen or film. CT scanners translate the densities of different parts of the body into a picture than can be studied and compared to other images.

The new machine is said to provide excellent images in a very short time. This means that patients will spend much less time in the machine and results will go to physicians more promptly, according to Dr. Arthur Fein, director of radiology. The acquisition will allow for scheduling of CT appointments within 36 hours and often the same day as requested. For convenience, CT exams are now available evenings and Saturday mornings.

The Medical Center has also acquired a second low-dose mammography unit for conducting breast cancer screenings. Until the addition of this second unit, women wanting to have a mammogram had to wait days and even weeks for an appointment. "Those delays are now over," Dr. Fein reported.

The $68 mammogram can be scheduled on referral from a physician on evenings and weekends. Mammograms are performed by trained mammography technologists, and the service is accredited by the American College of Radiology.

The American Cancer Society recommends a baseline mammogram for every woman between the ages of 35 and 40 and then every year or two from 40 to 49. After 50, women should have annual mammograms, Dr. Fein said.

"Recent studies have shown that while breast self-examination is important, the size of the lump that is palpable on self-examination is often too large for uncomplicated treatment," Dr. Fein continued. "Over the next few years, we will see an increased emphasis on mammography as the screening method of choice for detecting breast cancer."

$10,000 Challenge Grant To Rocky Hill Library

The Mary Jacobs Library, the public library for Montgomery Township and Rocky Hill, has received a $10,000 challenge to its fund-raising efforts from Andrew B. Young. Earlier, in late 1990, Mr. Young, an attorney in Philadelphia and a trustee of the Mary Jacobs Library, gave a $5,000 challenge which was matched successfully.

This new challenge of $10,000 is to encourage gifts from individuals and companies in the area the library serves to help meet the $300,000 goal for construction of a new wing. To date one-third of the goal has been reached through donations and pledges.

The Mary Jacobs Library is building the new wing designed by Short and Ford and remodelling the existing space to accommodate the rapidly growing number of volumes, patrons, staff and circulation. From 1974 when the library was opened to the end of 1990, the annual circulation has gone from 13,000 to more than 106,000 books, records, CDs and VCRs.

Vendors and Volunteers Needed for Cultural Fair

The second annual West Windsor Cultural Fair is still several months away, but the Human Relations Council of West Windsor is looking for groups and organizations wishing to participate in this multi-cultural event.

Needed also are volunteers to help organize the fair which is scheduled for Saturday, October 12, from noon to 6 p.m. at West Windsor-Plainsboro High School in Princeton Junction. The purpose of the fair is to highlight the cultural diversity of the community.

Clubs, groups and organizations from throughout the area are invited to share their particular area of expertise. Space in the high school parking lot can be reserved for such activities as selling food or crafts or for displays or demonstrations. If possible, the items sold or displayed should reflect an ethnic background or be of special interest to a particular country or culture.

The fair sponsors are also looking for groups or individuals interested in demonstrating their music or dance. Entertainment will take place outdoors as well as indoors in the high school theatre. Last year's entertainment included such groups as Israeli, Chinese, Indian and Assamese dancers and demonstrations of Thai boxing and Korean Tae Kwan Do martial arts.

Groups interested in reserving the 10 x 20 foot space will be charged on a sliding scale: corporations, $50; ethnic or other food vendors, $30; non-food ethnic or other vendors, $15; and nonprofit organizations not selling but displaying or disseminating literature, no charge for one space and $15 for second space.

Last year's Cultural Fair attracted more than 3000 attendees from West Windsor and the surrounding communities. The West Windsor Human Relations Council expects an even larger turnout this year after the success of its first fair.

Anyone interested in reserving a space or in volunteering to help organize the fair may call Janet Penn, 275-5012, or Hussein Shehata, 275-4475.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships, and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 40 cents.

Two Troop 43 Members Honored as Eagle Scouts

Boy Scout Troop 43 recently held a Court of Honor at which Chrisophter Longo and Ian Reddy were honored as Eagle Scouts. Under the leadership of Dr. Frank Fornoff, the troop has traditionally exceeded the national average in the number of Eagle scouts it has produced. The ceremony followed a supper for the scouts and their families at Nassau Presbyterian Church, the troop's sponsor.

In order to qualify for the Eagle Scout award, a scout must demonstrate leadership qualities and complete a significant service project which benefits the community. Chris' project involved clearing an educational nature trail at Island Beach State Park in Ocean County, along which he and other scouts erected signs which described various plants along the trail.

Ian's project benefitted the Arts Council of Princeton. He and other scouts repainted several areas, erected bookcases and performed other tasks. Both boys are Princeton residents.

Chris, a junior at Pine Ridge School in Williston, Vt., is also a member of the Williston Volunteer Fire Department. Ian is a sophomore at Princeton High School where he is a member of the wrestling team.

Children's Poetry, Prose Published in New Book

The Arts Council of Princeton has published its 1991 edition of Under Age, Poems and Prose by Writers Under 18. An annual program of the Arts Council, the publication collects and publishes in book form the best poetry and prose of approximately 50 children from more than 25 central New Jersey schools.

"The purpose of the book is to encourage young people to think and write creatively," said Arts Council Director Anne Reeves. "And to reward the best efforts with the public recognition that comes with the publication of one's work in a real book that's on the shelf in local bookstores."

"The book is also an effective classroom tool," said this year's editor, Judith Michaels. Ms. Michaels is a published poet, teacher of creative writing and English at Princeton Day School, and this year's visiting poet-in-the-schools for the Geraldine Dodge Foundation. "Not only does the annual competition motivate budding writers and teachers alike, but my students get a great deal out of just browsing through past and present volumes of Under Age, marveling at, and discussing what their peers, both younger and older have to say."

Selections for the 1991 edition were made anonymously by Ms. Michaels and Mimi Schwartz. Ms. Schwartz is a teacher of creative writing and founder of the Helikon writing program, which provided the initial seed money and the inspiration for the publication of the first Under Age two years ago.

The book is available at area bookstores and by mail through the Arts Council, 102 Witherspoon Street, Princeton 08542. Cost is $6 per copy, plus $1.50 for postage and packaging. Classroom sets are available at a reduced rate.

Legalized Drugs Topic

The Mercer Council on Alcoholism and Drug Addiction will sponsor a panel discussion entitled "Drugs: Should They Be Legalized?" on Thursday, June 20, at 7:30 at the Hyatt Regency on Route 1.

Trenton Mayor Douglas Palmer, Mercer County Executive Bill Mathesius and Mercer Council on Alcoholism and Drug Addiction President Kay McGrath are on the panel.

"The underlying question is 'Does our nation's drug policy work?' " Ms. McGrath said. "We plan to examine the proposition that the decriminalization of narcotics, marijuana and cocaine is the solution to our society's drug problems."

The public is invited, and there will be time for questions and comments from the floor.

For more information, call the Council at 396-5874.

Downtown Recycling

As part of their curriculum, sophomores at Princeton High School participate in a community service project. This past year, seven students chose to work with the Whole Earth Center to obtain recycling bins for public use in the downtown Princeton area. The students proposed a pilot recycling program to the Borough Mayor and Council, and they accepted the proposal.

On Saturday five yellow recycling buckets will be put into place on Nassau and Witherspoon Streets. The buckets will be for glass, aluminum and plastic beverage containers, not for garbage or other recyclable materials.

speak. Jonathan's parents, Neil and Susan Pope, are expected to attend and to speak with his friends.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 at the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck, when The Rev. Floyd W. Church will officiate.

"We are bewildered," said PDS Headmaster Duncan Alling. "Jonathan was a delightful young man, always with a smile. There is no rational explanation."

Jonathan lived with his parents and older sister, Rachel, on Colonial Road in West Windsor. He attended elementary school in West Windsor before entering Princeton Day School in sixth grade in 1984. David Bogle, director of development at PDS and a spokesperson for the school, characterized Jonathan as "happy-go-lucky and laughing, always with a big smile, and happy." He was, he added, "a fine student — not a merit scholar — but a fine student."

Jonathan had been accepted at the University of Richmond for the fall term and was happy about that, Mr. Bogle said. He was co-captain of the school's fencing team and "absolutely loved" the sport.

He was also a member of the Panther soccer team for three years and was active in school activities.

Outgoing and Personable

Assistant Headmaster Arthur Aaronson, who was close to Jonathan and one of the first persons at the school to be contacted by the family on Sunday afternoon, described Jonathan as "very outgoing and very personable. He had a very funny sense of humor and he cared about people.

"He was very good to me — felt very comfortable about coming into my office and talking. He had so many good qualities, which is why its been such a shock."

Mr. Aaronson reported that the faculty was notified through the feculty telephone tree on Sunday that Jonathan had been struck by a train and killed. On Monday morning the normal school assembly was suspended to give the upper school students who would have known him best an opportunity to meet in individual class homerooms.

Mr. Aaronson and the two deans, Anne Rothrock and Mr. Reimers, each spent time with one of the upper school classes. Clinical psychologists were on hand to help students who needed counseling.

The night before his death, Jonathan had attended a party in Bucks County, Pa. When Lower Makefield Township police responded to a noise complaint, an officer found Jonathan carrying an untapped keg of beer.

He was issued a summons for possession of alcohol, and later, according to a friend, went back to the police station to try to get police to withdraw the citation.

His sister denied that the incident had anything to do with her brother's death. "We have no clue whatsoever," she said.

Sunday morning, Jonathan told his parents he was going to a mall. Instead he jumped from the Clarksville bridge at 10:48, lending in front of or on top of the speeding Amtrak Train 198 bound for Boston.

At the time, West Windsor police said, only the train engineer and another employee were on board. Police said the train was traveling at an estimated 90 miles an bour. Police made a tentative initial identification from a driver's license in the victim's wallet.

Born in England

Jonathan was born in Cambridge, England, moving to the West Windsor area in 1975. His father is a consultant to British companies that operate in this country.

Besides his school activities and sports, be was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck and was active in its Youth Fellowship Program. In addition to his parents and sister, Jonathan is survived by his maternal grandmother, Edith M. Meads of Cambridge, England, and his paternal grandparents, Frederick and Esther Pope of Cambridge.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Memorial Fund of the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck for Refugee Relief, 154 South Mill Road, Princeton Junction, N.J. 08550.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, 40 Vandeventer Avenue.

Coast" to prepare the group for the two whale watch cruises.

Saturday's cruise will be a four-hour trip and Sunday's trip will last approximately eight hours. On previous trips, an assortment of seabirds, dolphins, minke whales, fin whales, and humpback whales have been seen. In addition to the whale watches, participants will be able to explore Provincetown and the Cape Cod National Seashore.

Included in the cost are transportation, three nights lodging at the Provincetown Inn, five meals, a visit to Mystic Aquarium, the two cruises, and a whale watch guide.

The trip is for the Watershed members; however, new members are welcome. For more information call 737-7592.

Route 27 & 206

Route 27 and to eliminate parking on Nassau Street are related to this [four-lane highways]. The bridge needs rebuilding or replacement. The DOT wants to build a four-lane bridge as part of this scheme to four-lane Princeton. The replacement they are now designing is fully compatible with a four lane highway. We must stop this."

Officials in the planning and the community relations departments at the DOT say the profile-cross sections for Routes 27 and 206 which the Township obtained at a DOT workshop last March are not "proposals" in the sense of something that is proposed to be built. Rather, the officials say, they are guidelines or planning documents which the DOT is sharing with the municipalities as part of the process of developing a code or set of standards regulating highway access — i.e. whether or not a driveway will be permitted from a development onto a state highway.

In DOT language, the profile-cross section is known as a "desired typical section," or DTS. Developed on the basis of existing traffic volume, existing land use projects, and a number of other criteria culled from various departments throughout the department, there is a DTS for each segment of every highway in the state. They have always played a role in the DOT permitting process for highway access.

In 1989, following a period of rapid building in the state and increased congestion on the highways, the New Jersey State Legislature adopted the State Highway Management Act. The Act gave the DOT greater authority to control highway access by allowing it to develop standards for the spacing of driveways.

Mobility Over Access

According to John Jennings, supervising planner in the DOT planning department, the Act stressed mobility, safety and efficiency in the movement of people and goods "for present and future generations." As Ms. Lawler puts it, "mobility takes precedence over right of access." Mr. Jennings adds that the DOT recognizes that some roads serve dual functions and it is trying to balance the rights of through traffic with needs for access.

As the DOT set about developing a highway access code (the first version was published a year ago and a revised draft version this past May), the desired typical section or DTS took on greater prominence as a planning document, not only for the state but also for the municipalities. Ms. Lawler explains that the DTS serves notice for future development.

"If the owner of property on Route 27 comes in and wants to put a building 25 feet from the curb, and if the municipality can show him the DTS and tell him that at some future date the highway might be widened right through his building, maybe we'll get the set backs that ought to be there," she says.

Ms. Lawler stresses that the DTS was "never intended to be taken by the municipalities as an indication that plans for improvements or widening are under way. They are a guide for their reference in future planning." The DTSs also categorize the type of road, which in turn will determine how the DOT may or may not grant future access. Route 27 and Route 206, for instance, have been classified as access level 4, which requires provision for left-turn access via left-turn lane for a driveway.

Mr. Jennings says the DOT hopes that once the highway access code is formally adopted, the municipalities will reflect its provisions in their master plans, "so we don't perpetuate the problems of the past," as he puts it. Ms. Lawler points out that if the access code had been in place five years ago, there wouldn't be degree of congestion and delay along Route 1 there is today — and the state wouldn't be embarked on a very costly program to install overpasses to eliminate traffic signals to increase mobility.

In the past, Mr. Jennings says, a developer would go to the DOT to request an access permit, there would be some negotiation as to what improvements the developer would be required to implement to facilitate traffic movement, but the municipality and the county were not part of the process and "one agency would be playing off the other."

"We are trying to blend planning and engineering concepts," Mr. Jennings says, "to formalize the process so that a developer will know up front what our standards are."

Easing Princeton's Fears

All of which may or may not ease Princeton's fears about four-laning. After attending a DOT workshop in March on the State Highway Access Management Act, Peter A. Kneski, assistant Township engineer, sent a memo to Engineer Robert V. Kiser questioning whether the proposed desirable typical sections and the proposed access levels are consistent and compatible with Township plans.

In turn, Mr. Kiser sent a memo to Township Administrator James J. Pascale commenting that "The DTS indicated through Princeton is unrealistic and should be revised to conform with the community's Master Plan." Mr. Kiser noted that Somerset County Planning Board had similar concerns.

Five public hearings on the revised draft access code are planned before final adoption. One will take place on Tuesday, July 9, from 3 to 8 at the DOT building, 1035 Parkway Avenue, Ewing Township. Another is scheduled in the New Brunswick Public Library, Thursday, July 18, also from 3 to 8. These are the hearings that Mr. Smith refers to in the pink broadside.

Rehobilitotion Cheoper

The other source of concern is the replacement and widening of the Harry's Brook Bridge. The DOT rejected the recommendation of a consultant hired by the Township that the bridge could be rehabilitated for slightly less than the cost estimated by the DOT to replace it.

The most recent profile submitted by the DOT to the Township shows two 12-foot traffic lanes and two 10-foot shoulders. Residents fear that the two 10-foot shoulders could be turned into traffic lanes, and the bridge would become four lanes, part of what they see as the DOT's intent to four-lane Route 27 from the bridge over the Millstone River below the Carnegie Lake dam all the way to the Harrison Street intersection.

In meetings with the engineer and residents, DOT officials have said they did not think that would happen, but they would not give the absolute assurance it would not that the residents sought. Nor would they agree to reduce the shoulder width by a couple of feet, which would reduce the likelihood of the bridge becoming four lanes instead of two.

At a recent Township Committee meeting, Committee reviewed in work session a series of steps proposed by attorney Gerald Muller designed to set in motion an historic preservation review on the part of the state in regard to any improvement of the bridge. A status report is expected during Committee's work session this Wednesday.

Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt Retiring After 25 Years with Borough Police

He served in the army military police for nine years.

He has a 35-year service pin as a volunteer fireman for the Colonial Volunteer Fire Company in Hamilton Township.

This Thursday evening he will receive a gift of appreciation from Mayor and Council as he retires after a 25-year career of service in the Borough police department.

The time had come for Ptl.Bernard C. Lenhardt to serve himself. "Twenty-five years in one spot is long enough. It's time for some new adventure down the road," he said. Down the road for the barrel-chested Lenhardt is Florida where he reports he has purchased a home in the Fort Lauderdale area. "I've been vacationing there for years and that's where I'm going."

Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt
Off to Florida after 25-year career with Borough Police Department.

Only 52, Ptl. Lenhardt says he hopes to get involved as a civilian communications technician. "I'm more interested in communications now," says Lenhardt, who for the past year and a half has been the department's communications officer, responsible for the supervision of its four dispatchers and all the communication equipment the department utilizes.

"Oh, sure. Absolutely. I have no regrets," replies Ptl. Lenhardt when asked if he would choose police work again. But would he recommend law enforcement as a career to someone starting out?

"Law enforcement today is getting to the state where it has become high tech," he observed. "It's not something you can recommend. You have to have that inside desire to do police work. It is not like it's portrayed on TV.

"My definition of police is being able to help people. That is the main reason why I am a police officer. Whatever it takes. Some people may even have to be arrested to be helped. Whatever it is...just helping people."

Joined Force in 1966

Ptl. Lenhardt began helping people here when he joined the Borough police department on September 1, 1966. After leaving the army in September of '64, he had worked for 18 months as a corrections officer at the N.J. State Prison. To make ends meet he sold roofing and siding part-time but, he recalled, "That was not a job for me. You can't be interested in that!"

About that time, he said, he had a conversation with John J. Bellow, who talked to him about the Borough police department and informed him it was giving a test. (Capt. Bellow retired from the Borough force a few years ago.)

"I took the test. It was the same test that Tom Michaud took." Michaud this January took over as Chief of the Department when former Chief Michael Carnevale retired.

With his background in tbe military police and as a corrections officer, by the time he joined a class at the police academy in Sea Girt as a probationary patrolman, "it was little more than a refresher course," recalled Ptl. Lenhardt. His chief interest was in traffic investigation.

Although he had spent most of his army career in Germany and had been involved in the July, 1958 Lebanon crisis, Ptl. Lenhardt was also stationed for two years at Ft. Irwin in California where he was a liaison officer between the military and the California Highway Patrol. His job: investigating serious accidents involving military personnel.

In January 1980, he was named the police department's first Traffic Safety Officer. "I was the original." As such, he was in charge of traffic law enforcement and oversaw the investigation of all traffic accidents and commerical vehicle inspections.

In his annual police report, then Chief Michael Carnevale wrote: "During 1980 in his new role, Ptl. Lenhardt issued 1,312 summonses for moving violations, 340 for parking infractions and 244 more summonses for other than moving violations.

"He conducted 285 investigations, held 311 interviews, investigated 39 accidents, made 22 arrests and logged 3,720 miles on his patrol car. I think that's a credit to the office and to Ptl. Lenhardt."

Ptl. Lenhardt

He held the position for seven years. "In a small department like this, there are not that many specialties," he said. There was still room enough, however, for him to be president of the Princeton Patrolmen's Benevolent Association 130 for three years, its vice president for a year, and a state delegate for 15.

Another Hat

Ptl. Lenhardt, who was born and grew up in Hamilton Township, has worn another hat for most of his life, a fireman's hat. The fire department has always been a family hobby, he said.

The six-foot, 235-pound Lenhardt describes himself, amazingly, as the runt of seven brothers. He is right in the middle: three older and three younger than himself. "Pop had a farm and he wanted a lot of hands," he smiled. The Colonial Volunteer Fire Company District 8 is built on Lenhardt farm property off Kuser Road.

His father, he said, was the 8th District Fire Commissioner for more than 30 years. Brother George is the Mercer County Fire Marshall; brother Joe is the County's Assistant Fire Marshall. Brothers Jack, Ray and George have all served as Chief of the Colonial Fire Company. When a new fire house was constructed about two decades ago, Bernie served as chairman of the building committee. "It took five years of research," he said.

No surprise then that Ptl. Lenhardt was tbe arson investigator for the Borough police for many years.

At a time when law enforcement has become high tech, where the computer has replaced the nightstick, where almost every new recruit is now a college graduate, the burly Lenhardt is a throwback. A little more colorful. A cop's cop. A helluva police officer.

It comes as a slight surprise then, when he says one of the things he likes to do most is read. He has just finished the seven books of The Brotherhood of War by W.E.B. Griffin and he plans to read all seven volumes again, he says, when he retires.

His other hobby is computers. Buying his own computer and equipping it with a modem is the smartest thing he's ever done, he reports.

What will he miss the most? "People. I've made a lot of friends, met a lot of people here. Princeton people are unique. That's what I am going to miss the most in Florida."

When asked how they were unique, Ptl. Lenhardt smiled, shook his head and said, "You're not going to get that from me."

Response Overwhelming For Bangladesh Relief

To the Editor of Town Topics:

When the recent cyclone struck Bangladesh, leaving some 135,000 people dead, some students at Princeton University felt compelled to come to the aid of the survivors. We organized a group, composed entirely of students from countries all over the globe, and called it "Princeton for Bangladesh." The objective was that each volunteer would put in his/her best effort towards raising badly needed financial assistance for the people of Bangladesh.

With no experience, whatsoever, in fund raising, our expectations were modest. We did not think that we would raise much money. We did not expect many people to respond. With so many nations in dire need all over the world, we did not expect (or want) our cause to take priority. All we wanted to do was to feel that we were making a difference through our efforts.

The past week has been a moving experience for us. The response of this community for a nation on the other side of the world has overwhelmed us. As of the ninth day of our campaign we have collected about $11,000 and every day we have many more donations coming in. We have already sent this money to the American National Red Cross, so that they can channel it to relief efforts in Bangladesh.

In absolute terms, this figure represents a tiny amount — but it translates to a large amount in Bangladesh. For every dollar we have collected, ten children can be provided with meals. This community's support to a nation on the other side of the globe is guaranteed to make a difference to the lives of thousands.

During the course of these eight days, we've had the fortune of meeting some remarkable people here in Princeton. A high school student emptied out all the money he had in his pockets (four quarters) and said that he hoped that it would do some good. A person who gave us $5 apologized for not being able to give more, saying that he didn't have a job.

An elderly lady, who didn't seem very well off, contributed everything she had except for her bus fare. Princeton for Bangladesh has also received very generous contributions from members of the University community. It has moved us to see individuals respond so readily in this time of need.

The people in Princeton have also taken up the cause by themselves. Children at a local school organized a bake sale and sent the proceeds to Princeton for Bangladesh. The pastor at one of the churches in town asked his Sunday congregation to contribute generously for the victims of the calamity in Bangladesh. Student groups at Princeton University have asked their own members to assist Princeton for Bangladesh. A check from California came in today and we suspect that someone in Princeton told her about our organization. The word is moving out as the people in this community let others know about what we are doing.

But a lot remains to be done. We have been trying to reacb the children in the community through a program called "Kids for Kids in Bangladesh." Interested children may make a contract with their parents, who, in exchange for some chores done around the house, will send a check to Princeton for Bangladesh on the child's behalf.

The objective here is not so much to raise money, but to leave a lasting impression among the children that they themselves can make a difference to the lives of other children living elsewhere in the planet. Even if our efforts just lead to a better understanding about living conditions in other parts of the world, we can say that we have been extraordinarily successful. However, we need volunteers and assistance from the local schools for this campaign to succeed.

We are also trying to reach the corporations in this locality. With their assistance, we can raise much more money towards our cause. And lastly, we are trying to reach those people in the community who still don't know about Princeton for Bangladesh. We want to remind them that we are still accepting donations (payable to Princeton for Bangladesh). Checks may be mailed to The International Center, 11 Murray Dodge Hall, Princeton University, Princeton, NJ 08540.

Princeton Well Served By Police Department

To the Editor, Town Topics:

At a time when police departments around the country are often criticized, it is reassuring to find out first-hand what outstanding departments we have here in Princeton.

When our household was recently the object of a robbery, the Princeton Borough Police responded quickly, professionally, and sensitively. The investigation led by Detective Dennis McManimon was very thorough and resulted swiftly in both an arrest and the recovery of our stolen possessions.

Our family is grateful to Detective McManimon and his colleagues for their professionalism. Judging from this experience, our community is well served by its police department.

Special Efforts Invested In School Compromise

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On Monday, May 20, the Princeton Regional Board of Education, the Princeton Borough Council and the Princeton Township Committee were able to agree on approximately $600,000 of the cuts to the defeated Princeton school budget. While the compromise was not perfect, it was, under the circumstances, the optimum solution that least affected programs directly touching children.

The compromise would not have been possible without the special efforts of certain individuals who worked on our school budget subcommittee. Those individuals invested at least 20 to 30 hours above and beyond the time that we spent in joint meetings and deserve special recognition.

The school budget subcommittee members from the Township included our Administrator Jim Pascale, Chief Financial Officer Himanshu Shah and Deputy Mayor Ellen Souter.

The Borough Council sent Mayor Marvin Reed, Council President Mildred Trotman and Councilman David Goldfarb.

The school delegation to the subcommittee included Cor-

Rotary Extends Thanks For Support of Festival

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On behalf of the offices, directors and members of the Rotary Club of Princeton, I want to thank the members of the Princeton community who helped make our annual Pancake Festival the best to date.

Because of your support of this, and other Rotary projects, the Rotary Club of Princeton will be able to return over $30,000 to our community in support of local and international projects.

Our special thanks go to Nelson Zager and the management of the Nassau Inn for providing the location, and to the Chefs of Scanticon-Princeton, Compri-Novotel and the Nassau Inn for their culinary expertise.

A particular thank you is reserved for the Princeton High School Music Department and for the Freshman/Sophomore Band under the able direction of Anthony Biancosino for providing musical entertainment of such professional excellence.

We in Rotary are deeply grateful for the help and assistance we received in making our annual Pancake Festival such a resounding success.

Post Prom Party a Hit Thanks to Effort of Many

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Even though two weeks have gone by, Princeton High School students still are commenting about the great time everyone had at the 1991 PHS Post Prom Party. Having shed their prom dresses, dress shoes and tuxedos for jeans, T-shirts and sneakers, more than 250 students ate, danced, played games, and won prizes until 4 a.m.

The students' parents — who didn't have to worry that their youngsters were driving and/or drinking in the wee hours of the morning following the prom — were especially pleased with the party's success. The students and parents thank all those who gave generously of their time and money, resulting in such a successful evening.

As in years' past, Alan Landis donated space for the party at Carnegie Center. Peter Savidge and the Carnegie Center staff made the facility work so well. Also, the party would not have been possible without the donations of the Police Benevolent Association, the Princeton Youth Fund, the Rotary Club of Princeton, and Sports Medicine.

Many local businesses donated door prizes that generated much excitement throughout the evening. We would like to thank the following retailers and restaurateurs for their gifts:

The Rocky Hill Inn, Marriott Hotel, Hyatt Regency, AMC Quaker Bridge Mall 4, Mercer Mall Cinema, Prince Theater, United Artists Movies at MarketFair, Princeton Aqua Sports, McCarter Theatre, Thomas Sweet, H. Gross & Co. Outfitters, J.B. Winberie, Sealfons, Mom's Pizza, Kismet Boutique Alchemist & Barrister, The Athenian, Abel Bagel, Video Express, The Grotto, Tempting Tiger, Spring Street Cafe, Princeton Record Exchange, Victor's Pizzeria, Garden Theatre, Vesuvio's Pizzeria, Nassau Street Seafood, Pizza Star, The Princeton Fitness Center, Clancy's Place, Proctor Center Stationer's, West Coast Video, Great Tastes, Music Cellar, Lee's Castle 11, Fitness Force, Inc.

And last, but certainly not least, we would like to thank the PHS faculty and staff and parents who exhibited so much support. The end result was a safe and happy prom night.

IT'S NEW To Us

Full Tree & Shrub Service Is Woodwinds Specialty

When do the trees and shrubs need pruning? Is this the time to transplant that azalea? What should be done about those pesky Japanese beetles and spider mites? What about pesticides? Are they safe?

Woodwinds Associates, Inc. on Route 27 in Kingston has been serving the area since 1967 and can certainly provide answers for those questions. As Tina deTuro, daughter of the company's founder, Samuel deTuro, points out, "We offer a complete service for trees and shrubs, as well as landscape design and horticultural consultation. We are an established company — we'll be celebrating our 25th anniversary next year — and we have many regular customers of long-standing.

Environmental safety is a big concern these days, and, in particular, many people question the use of widespread spraying. The EPA and the DEP have also instituted more stringent rules about the use of pesticides. Woodwinds bas recently developed a plan which significantly reduces spraying, while concentrating on other means of pest control.

"The program is called the plant health care implementation system," explains Ms. deTuro. "We will be using principles of Integrated Pest Management (I.P.M.), and this includes using fewer pesticides than was done in past spray programs. Pesticides will be used only as a last resort, because pruning, trimming, thinning and fertilizing are the preferred treatment for controlling the problem. A lot of preventive things can be done before spraying. When we do spray, we will use safe non-toxic chemicals, such as oils and soap, wherever possible. We will only spray a specific target. It is pinpointed."

Inspection & Monitoring

Woodwinds has enrolled more than 30 clients in this new system, and Ms. deTuro explains that the program involves a number of inspection and monitoring visits before and during the growing season.

"It starts out with a winter monitor at the end of February or early March. We look for egg masses and other symptoms of insects. If we can clip out or scrape out then, we do. Also, we do a map of the trees and shrubs on the property. Then later, if clients notice a problem, they can identify the tree or shrub right on the map.

"At the end of March or beginning of April," she continues, "we go and look again. The system is personalized. Not all yards have the same kind of pest problems. How often we monitor depends on the property. It could be once a week, if they want a completely insect-free yard, or it might be every two to three weeks. Also, we want the client to call if something seems to be wrong."

Ms. deTuro adds that when a problem area is identified, Woodwinds will spray if necessary, using the safer ingredients. "We look for problems and spot treat them and only spray when it is needed. For instance, pinoaks are the worst for gypsy moths, and ash trees have the least problem. You would treat them differently. Whenever we can, we try to use more natural practices. In another example, tent caterpillars can be clipped out or burned.

"This is a very interesting program, and I baven't beard of anyone else in the area doing it. As far as I know, it is unique here. We are breaking new ground, and we continue to study it. We learn something new every day."

The opportunity to continue to learn appeals to Ms. deTuro, who has been involved full time with Woodwinds for two years. Prior to that, she bad worked there part time and in the summer when she was growing up. "I had a lot of hands-on experience," she says with a smile.

Call of the Outdoors

After graduating from college, sbe changed direction for a while and worked in the retail business. But the call of the outdoors was never far away, and when she joined Woodwinds, she took on a variety of responsibilities.

"I'm really involved in everything," she says. "I do sales, consulting, hands-on work and diagnose problems. I come in at six a.m. and do the scheduling, and then I go out with the crews. We consult about overall problems in people's yards, and especially if people have moved to a new place, we go and look over everything. The majority of our business is trees — pruning, fertilizing and spraying."

When she decided this was the profession for her, Ms. deTuro took a series of courses, including dendrology (identification of woody plants) and ornamental horticulture at Mercer County College and at Cook College at Rutgers. She also took an intensive one-semester entomology course in one week at the University of Maryland.

"This is wonderful work, and I love it," she says, adding that May and June are the busiest times. "This is the time to spray, and fertilizing can be done now, as well as in the fall. Some pruning can be done now, 'oo. It depends on the variety of trees and bushes. Some shouldn't be done until after flowering. With otbers, it doesn't matter. For some, it is best during the dormant season. We actually prune year round. Also, it is not necessary to prune every year for the general health and maintenance of tbe tree. Overall maintenance should be every two or three years."

In addition, she notes that the next few weeks are also a very busy time for landscaping. "My mother, Judy deTuro, is a landscape designer, and this part of the business is growing."

May was an especially dry month, and over a period of time, this can cause problems, explains Ms. deTuro. "Watering should be done every seven to 10 days if there has not been an inch of rainfall in that time."

Costs for tree and shrub maintenance and care vary depending on the number and size of the specimens and the types of jobs involved, she says. Generally, the smallest spraying job starts at $50, and fertilizing is also $50 and up.

"We really try to do our best for customers," adds Ms. deTuro. "We go out of our way to please them and also send a questionnaire to see if they are satisfied with our work. We always go out immediately if there is a problem. We stand behind our work."

As for berself, she can't think of anything she'd rather do. "I enjoy being with the people —

both the clients and the personnel here. I love working with the crews, and I love being outside. During the growing season, I'm outside 80% of the time. I have learned to climb trees, which helps me learn my job better, and I go out and help chip brush and spray, if the crew needs an extra hand."

Year-Round Gift Selection At Bowden's Fireside Shop

"We try to be unique in the products we carry, and we try to service customers to the max. We have customers whose children and grandchildren come here. We have established a continuity, which really makes it nice."

Gary Bowden, owner of Bowden's Fireside Shop, located at 1731 Nottingham Way, Route 33 in Hamilton Township, is referring to the fine reputation the shop has enjoyed since it was opened by his grandfather, Frank Bowden, in 1951.

"It was actually a spin-off of my great-grandfather's furniture store," recalls Mr. Bowden. "It carried new and used furniture and Oriental rugs. Then, one day, my grandfather put a pair of andirons in the window for display. They were very popular, and that was it. From then on, he had fireplace equipment."

The store moved from Trenton to its present location in the early 1960s, and the shop was later purchased by Mr. Bowden's father. When he retired in 1986, Mr. Bowden became the owner.

"I had worked here on weekends in the fall and winter when I was growing up," he remembers. "Later, I was involved in the corporate world for a while, but now I really enjoy being in the business. I especially like to anticipate the customers' taste and the changes in styling that occur. Trends come and go quickly. You have to be fast on your feet and responsive.

"We keep our inventory very low," he adds, "and we are real picky about what we have. Also, we don't push things on people, just to make a sale."

Popular Year-Round

Known for its fine fireplace equipment, Bowden always has a full selection in stock, and it is popular year-round. In addition, there are many other gifts on hand.

"Right now, our biggest seller is our gas grill," reports Mr. Bowden. "We carry Ducane gas grills, the very best backyard grills. We assemble and deliver at no charge, and as a service, we will even fill up the tank with gas on the way over, so people can start the grill right away.

"We also have replacement parts for all makes and models of grills. This is a big part of the business."

Also popular now are mail boxes, brass items (door knockers, kick plates, candlesticks, sconces), weathervanes, wind chimes, sundials and outdoor lighting.

"There is a need now for outdoor items," says Mr. Bowden, "and we are fully stocked. Mail boxes are a year-round business, and we offer two main lines. Bacova, the familiar cream color with a variety of designs, which can be personalized, and copper mail boxes in different designs which can also be personalized. In addition, we have porch and city boxes and a new line of contemporary designs for home and office.

"We also carry mail box posts and install them, as well," he continues. "We provide as much service as possible."

Brass door knockers and kickplates by Baldwin are available, and Mr. Bowden notes that they (and the mail boxes) are often an excellent gift for someone who has built or moved to a new house. Brass items from Virginia Metalcrafters are also offered.

"We have a wide selection of lighting from Genie House, which has the best line of lanterns," he adds, "and we have them for posts or for hanging."

Decorative fans for the window available, as are mirrors, pictures, doormats, bird baths and a small selection of outdoor cast iron furniture.

Sports Court Is New Line

In addition, since the first of the year, Bowden's has carried Sports Court, a multi-purpose game court, which can be used for 15 different sports, including basketball, volleyball, tennis, badminton, roller skating and hopscotch, among others.

This is a prominent new line for the store, and Mr. Bowden is very enthusiastic about it. "This is a polypropylene sports surface, which is very durable, safe, and also because of the give of the surface, easy on the joints and the knees.

"The versatility of the product is tremendous," he adds. "It is also excellent for use around swimming pools and on boats, because it drains well, and there are no standing puddles. It is used in daycare center playground areas, both indoors and outdoors.

"As a multi-purpose recreational facility, especially for people who are sports-oriented and enjoy physical activity," he continues, "it is an excellent backyard facility that is great for family interaction."

With its adjustable components, it can easily be transposed from one sport to another. "You can adjust the poles and the net," explains Mr. Bowden, "and change a tennis net to badminton or volleyball. You can take the net off, and you will have a basketball court. There is also a rebounder net that you can do anything with — have a catch, hit tennis balls, kick a soccer ball into it, etc. Because of the tension on the net, it springs back."

Corporations and institutions are also beginning to use the product, and he recently installed a set of shuffleboard courts for a hotel at the shore.

"There are so many things you can do with this," he says. "It's just a great product."

Bowden's selection of merchandise fits into the price range of many pocketbooks. Doormats are $9.95, decorative fans $14, door knockers are in the $20 range, and weathervanes $29 to $79.

Mailboxes are $30 to $79, and gas grills $300 and up.

---

"We try to offer a selection that will appeal to many people," says Mr. Bowden. "It's nice to know our reputation is such that people feel they can count on us. Also, this is a family-owned and operated business. My cousin Curt Pasowicz is here in the store, and my wife often helps out, too. This is something we can offer that is special."

Bowden's is open Tuesday through Saturday 10 to 5, and Thursday until 8.

News of the THEATRES

"The Mousetrap" Opens Summer Theater Season

Princeton Summer Theater kicks off its 1991 season with Agatha Christie's classic thriller, The Mousetrop, directed by Michael Sattler. The play will be performed at Murray Theater on the Princeton University campus June 20-23, 27-30 and July 4-6 at 8 p.m.

The Mousetrop first opened in London's West End in 1952 and has been filling houses ever since, making it the longest-running play in theatrical history. The play's success is a tribute to Mrs. Christie's plotting skills. Almost 40 years after it opened, The Mousetrap still thrills and delights audiences every night, and its surprise ending has lost none of its shock value.

The Mousetrap is set in a cozy little boarding house in northern England during an intense snowstorm. Trapped in the house are eight strangers, all with dark secrets, and one of them a murderer. With the aid of a local detective, the guests embark on a deadly game of find-the-murderer-or-join-the-murdered, as the audience is challenged to discover the culprit before the climax of the play.

Director Michael Sattler is a student at Princeton University, and a member of the executive board of Theatre Intime. He has been seen on the Murray stage in recent months in Amodeus and Down on Union Street. He also directed James McClure's Lone Stor last October.

Princeton Summer Theater is a nonprofit drama group which will perform three full-scale productions this summer in Murray Theater.

Ticket prices for The Mousetrap are $12.50 for adults and $10 for students and senior citizens. All performances are at 8 p.m. For information and reservations, call 258-4950.

Singer/Songwriter Here In Concert for Children

Singer-songwriter Tom Chapin will conclude this year's Crackerjacks Series for Kids at McCarter Theatre with two performances on Saturday, June 15, at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. All tickets are $8.

Mr. Chapin has gained widespread critical as well as popular acclaim for his three A&M releases, aimed at 5- to 11-year-olds and their families. Family Tree (1988), Moonboat (1989), and his latest Mother Eorth have been recognized with awards from the American Library Association and Parent's Choice.

A pioneer in the field of children's music, Mr. Chapin and collaborators John Forster and Michael Mark have crafted an ever-expanding body of original music aimed at the post-tot, pre-teen set. Almost every song imparts some kind of message, but the overall tone remains light and fun. Mr. Chapin invites his audience to take part somehow in every song by singing, clapping, making whale sounds, counting, whistling and providing other sound effects.

To order tickets call the McCarter Theatre box office at 683-8000, Monday through Saturday, 9 to 6.

She has also starred in The Brady Brides with series co-star Maureen McCormick, a television movie called A Very Brady Christmas and last season's series entitled The Bradys.

Aside from her series work and role as Jan, she has starred in several television movies, including Dawn: Portrait of a Teenage Runaway, Secrets of Three Hungry Women and The Night the Bridge Fell Down.

The musical score of South Pacific includes such songs as "Younger Than Springtime," "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair," and "Some Enchanted Evening."

Grimm Fairy Tale Ahead At Hopewell Theater

Off-Broadstreet Theatre in Hopewell will present The Brave Little Tailor, an adaptation of the Grimm Brothers fairy tale, in three performances this weekend.

The story is about the tiny tailor who outwits two giants to win a princess and half a kingdom. Designed for children ages 2½ to 8, the performance lasts about 55 minutes.

Original Play Planned By Handicapped Youth

An original performance entitled The Travel Bureau will be presented Thursday, June 13, at 5:30 by nine developmentally delayed youngsters from Mercer County.

Thanks to a grant from tbe Mercer County Office on the Handicapped's Y.E.S.S. for Recreation program, Creative Theatre, located in Princeton, has been offering an after school drama program at Regional Day School in Hamilton. The show, to be presented at Regional Day on the grounds of Mercer County Community College, Old Trenton Road, West Windsor, will be a culmination of this 10-week course.

Beginning with a travel theme, the nine students, ranging from 10 to 16 years of age, brainstormed some places they would like to go. The students were led through some multimedia experiences by Creative Theatre's Education Director Jean Prall and Taryn Trappe, an educator and puppeteer with The Division of Developmental Disabilities in Trenton. Utilizing The Kids on the Block Puppets, drama activities, music, movement, and video the students have developed, through improvisation, their own original production.

The story line follows a tourist wbo enters a travel agency with the intention of going to New York City. While in NYC, he goes to the Ghost Busters building and ends up joining them on their next "bust" — Cinderella's haunted castle in Hawaii. From this adventure he decides to take a more sedate trip to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

However, when taking in the paintings of Amelia "Airhead" and the Three "Students" the paintings take him in! After another adventure that includes pirate puppets, a hidden treasure is found in Amelia's plane.

The play also includes Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Yosemite Sam and M.S. Hammer.

Admission is free, although reservations are requested. For more information call Ms. Prall at Creative Theatre, 924-3489.

Classical and Folk Music Cross Paths In Unusual American Boychoir Concert

The boychoir sound has long been associated with pure and sacred church music and occasionally light close harmony pieces. Classical and folk music cross paths rarely, and certainly not to the extent that they did in The American Boycboir concert on Friday night as Malcolm Dalglish — one of their own — introduced a major work to Princeton audiences: Hymnody of Earth, for boychoir, hammered dulcimer, and percussion.

For this performance, the Boychoir School presented all three of their ensembles: the Touring, Concert, and Resident choirs. Two of these choirs had a chance to perform on their own in the first half of the concert. The Touring Choir, conducted by James Litton, performed several Oriental pieces derived from their recent tour of the Far East. The first selection on the program, the Japanese piece Hotaru koi (Ho, Firefly) was typically Oriental in its word-painting; the pure vocal sound seem to "fly" around the room. This piece was full of unusual dynamic effects well executed by the choir.

The Korean selections which followed were just as effective in their word-painting, but introduced an element of the Boychoir sound often endemic to the late spring: what seemed to be an army of altos — no doubt graduating boys whose voices were in various stages of changing. The octaves between these "bassi" and the soprani were well-balanced, but it was clear that these boys were well on their way to becoming the basses and tenors of tomorrow.

Robert Palmer's Concert Choir chose American musical folklore for their presentation, and displayed a purity of diction and sound which will no doubt guarantee these boys a future in the Touring Choir next year. Although the top soprano sound was a bit light when the sopranos divided into two parts, the matched purity of vowels among all the young singers achieved the sparkling timbre required for these lyrical and simple folk tunes. Pianist Thomas Goeman accompanied these selections with clear sensitivity toward the vocal lines and boys' voices.

New Range for Hammered Dulcimer

The work of Malcolm Dalglish, and his percussionist Glen Velez, was introduced through a purely instrumental piece, Throw the Window Open. Mr. Dalglish demonstrated in this performance that he has pushed the hammered dulcimer to the very boundaries of New Age music, beyond the bluegrass and folk genres with which the instrument is often associated.

Such musical devices as bending the pitch of a string (seemingly by the use of the hand, rather than the hammer) and plucking the strings of an instrument which was designed to be struck with wooden hammers were reminiscent of the paces through which composers such as John Cage put the piano. Unfortunately, the dulcimer faced back toward the choir, and the audience could not see how Mr. Dalglish was striking or plucking the strings, or how the different courses of the instrument were played to produce bright or muted sounds.

It was evident from the two introductory pieces sung by the boys with Mr. Dalglish's playing that the free and open sound of The American Boycnoir is well-suited to the easy rollicking folk style of Mr. Dalglish's music. The genealogy of Mr. Velez's folk percussion instruments was hard to determine, but it was quite apparent that he was master of all of them, as he played as many as three percussion instruments at one time.

Although Hymnody of Earth has been recorded by Mr. Dalglish and the Boychoir, it is hard to imagine that a recording can capture the total visual and aural effect of this performance. This was a performance which involved a full range of lighting, as well as varied musical styles and vocal genres. A number of the selections in the cycle seemed classical in basis, while others were clearly rooted in Gospel and "Shaker jazz," energized by Mr. Velez's amazing playing. The musical high point seemed to come at the major a cappella selection of the cycle: To the Holy Spirit, followed by the traditional Shaker hymn Hunger and Thirst.

The Boychoir was joined in this work by The Bach Choir of Nassau Presbyterian Church, prepared by Sue Ellen Page. This co-educational choir was effective in its musical "answering" to the rougher boychoir sound in the traditional Greek St. Basil's Hymn. This work ends with a selection based on early American shape-note hymnody, and with only choir and percussion.

Throughout this performance, Mr. Dalglish demonstrated the full capabilities of the hammered dulcimer and the wide variety of musical effects one can derive from the instrument. By melding such imaginative and far-reaching music with the introspective poetry of Wendell Berry (as well as his own), Mr. Dalglish has shown that classical and folk elements can mix, with stunning and inventive results.

Ettl Farm Exhibit Will Be Extended

The First Ever Ettl Farm Artists' Exhibition, held last weekend, was so successful the artists have decided to extend the exhibition two more weekends.

The exhibit will be open to the public this Saturday and Sunday from noon to 4, and Saturday and Sunday, June 15 and 16, from noon to 4. The exhibit includes watercolors and screens by Barbara Campbell; cast bronze sculpture by Katherine Ettl, Dana Stewart, Jacqueline ter Kuile and Joseph Petrovics; metal sculpture by Vallessa Monk; carved wood and carved stone by Mr. Petrovics; cast and fabricated metal sculpture by Andrew Pitynski; and fine wood furniture by Andy Rae.

According to Mr. Rae, some of the visitors last weekend came just to see Ettl Farm, the 188-acre property off Rosedale Road purchased by Alex Ettl in the 1940s and used by him for some of the operations of the business he developed providing materials, tools and services for sculptors as well as a working farm.

The property has been sold to the developer, Sanford Nallit, and has Planning Board approval for subdivision into 117 building lots. Many of the visitors came to see the property before it is developed.

Ettl Farm became a mecca for artists to whom Mr. Ettl rented living and working space, and it was the home of the Princeton Art Association for many years. Among the artists who have lived or worked at Ettl Farm in the past were Felix de Weldon, sculptor of the Iwo Jima monument in Arlington Cemetery, and Herk van Tongeren, associated with the Johnson Atelier.

Artists from All Over

The artists who are exhibiting in this exhibit come from all over the country and abroad. Ms. Campbell is an interior designer working in the Princeton area and New York. She has degrees in art and design from the University of New Hampshire and the Fashion Institute of Technology in Manhattan.

Katherine Speed Ettl, Mr. Ettl's wife, took up sculpture in her mid-50s after raising four children and quickly became very proficient. In 1968 she was commissioned by the City of Jackson, Miss., to create a 10-foot bronze statue of Andrew Jackson. She has subsequently created several equally large monuments, including an eight-foot bronze of H.L. Hunt in Texas.

Vallessa Monk, 23, who works in metal, is a graduate of Sam Houston State University in Texas with a B.A. in fine arts. Joseph Petrovics is a Hungarian, a graduate of the Hungarian Academy of Fine Art in Budapest, whose sculpture has been exhibited across Hungary and Europe.

Andrew Pitynski was born in Poland and completed graduate studies at the Academy of Fine Arts in Cracow. Before coming to this country in 1974, he completed a 14-foot stone bust of Ignacy Paderewski which stands at the Collegium Paderevianum at Jagiellonski University. He began working at the Johnson Atelier and in 1983 his 30-foot long, 15-foot tall monument, "The Partisans", was unveiled on the Boston Common, where it still stands. He has since created several Andy Rae, designer and crafter of fine furniture, has a degree in fine arts from Bucks County Community College, and served apprenticeships with the late George Nakashima, architect Paolo Soleri of Arcosanti in Arizona, and cabinet maker Frank Klanz. Now in business for himself, he counts among his clients J. Seward Johnson Jr. for whom he made a limited edition of Adirondack chairs to complement an edition of his bronze figures.

Dana Stewart and Jacqueline ter Kuile have both worked in various capacities at the Johnson Atelier. Mr. Stewart now has his own foundry, and Ms. ter Kuile teaches at Artworks. An informal catalogue, describing the artists and how they came to Ettl Farm, is available at the exhibit.

Exhibits

The Stony Brook Gallery of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association will feature a colorful collection of landscape paintings and drawings by Joan Arbeiter. "The Vanishing Vista" will open with a reception on Saturday from 1:30 to 3 and will be on exhibit through Saturday, July 20.

This exhibit consists of natural and farm landscapes, and also includes some essays on the state of the environment. The essays are incorporated into one large painting of a rolling cornfield entitled, like the exhibit itself, The Vanishing Vista.

The gallery is located at the Buttinger Environmental Center on Titus Mill Road in Hopewell Township. The public is invited to the opening reception.

Tiger Coaches Playing Usual Athlete Recruiting Game, Attempting to Get Their Teams to Top or Remain There

A coach once quipped, "The only thing harder than getting to the top is staying on top." One need only examine how long the San Francisco 49er dynasty lasted in the National Football League, or sort through the debris of the Detroit Pistons express, derailed in Chicago. Maybe Nevada-Las Vegas coach Jerry Tarkanian could tell you what it's like to have every opponent gunning for you — forget the NCAA Disciplinary Committee.

If you're Princeton University men's lacrosse coach Bill Tierney, or men's basketball coach Pete Carril, or baseball coach Tom O'Connell, you know that the only way to return to the NCAA Tournament next year is to reel in the players to fill the gaps left by the departing seniors. On top of that, you try to recruit players who will cure sore spots in the lineup, spots which remain because of the failures of past recruiting efforts.

SPORTS

But it's not that easy. Princeton, as an Ivy League institution, has a few restrictions on what type of player may step onto the Jadwin hardcourt, or hop the dasher at Baker Rink, or race up the sideline at Palmer Stadium. Academic standards are the primary consideration. Each recruit must attain a certain index through a weighted formula which measures high school academic performance. If that level is not met, then the player simply will not be admitted.

But even meeting the required index does not guarantee admission. A potential recruit must still pass the test of Dean of Admissions Fred Hargadon. "He makes decisions based on whether the kid will be successful or not," said Tierney. "And that's the right way to go."

Once a recruit is accepted into Princeton, it is still up to the recruit to decide if he wants to choose Princeton as his school for the next four years. Most players have usually narrowed their selections to a minimal number by the time they apply, and coaches usually know that if Hargadon gives the okay, then the player is bound for Old Nassau.

But there's still the matter of financial aid. A year of tuition, room and board, and the related expenses costs about $22,000 for one year. Princeton does not give out atbletic scholarships. Instead, it offers financial aid — sometimes in the form of a scholarship, but usually through loans and campus employment. Occasionally, the monetary commitment is too great for a player who can receive scholarships elsewbere.

Parental Resistance

O'Connell lost a top recruit to a scholarship offer from Boston College. "With the kid that went to Boston College, we (the recruiting class) would have been great. Now, I think we're good," he said. "There's a resistance on the part of parents to making this type of financial commitment," said Carril, who added an anecdote about a former NBA player's son who would not come to Princeton last year because his father wanted his child to receive a scbolarship.

Still, the players come. Will one of the basketball recruits shine in the NCAA Tourney like freshman point guard Mike Brennan did last March? Is there a Kevin Lowe among the lacrosse recruits, someone who will add a new dimension to the Tiger offense? Could there be an ECAC Rookie of the Year candidate in bockey coach Jim Higgins' group, like freshman Rob LaFerriere last season? Nothing's ever certain, but each coacb bas a good feeling about which players should have an immediate impact on their teams.

You don't need to be a rocket scientist to figure out where the bole will likely be on next year's men's basketball team. Center Kit Mueller, the heart of the Princeton team for the last four seasons, will be merely a listing — albeit, oft-repeated — in the Tiger record book. So Carril focussed his efforts on acquiring a big man to fill Mueller's sboes. He got two.

The most notable is Rick Hielscber (Wilmette, Ill.), a 6-foot-8, 210-pound honorable mention All-American from the Chicago area. "He's one of the most highly recruited players ve've had over the past few years," said Carril. "He's a talented player who can play inside and out."

Another big guy with a little more beef is 6-7, 240-pound Brendan Pocock (Eugene, Ore.), who played at New Hampton Prep last season. New Hampton Athletic Director Mark Tillman said, "He bas the potential to be a very good Ivy League player. He's a Kit Mueller type: he passes the ball well and shoots the ball well."

The other sterling recruit is guard Peter LaMantia (Floral Park, N.Y.). LaMantia is an excellent shooter who earned second team All-New York City bonors last season. In addition, two other guards will look to add some depth to the Tiger bench with the departures of guards Jerry Doyle and Troy Hottenstein. The first, Steve Eidle (Boyertown, Pa.), played ball at the Hill School. The other name should ring a bell: Brian Leftwich (Washington). The younger brother of junior point guard George Leftwich, Brian plays the other guard position — that of shooter. "This was a fair year for us, but it wasn't a great year," said Carril.

Go Where They Can Play

Tierney found himself in a new role this season. Having masterminded the 180-degree turn of the men's lacrosse program, he's finding that it isn't always easy to bring players into a successful program, especially one dominated by underclassmen. "Kids will go where they think they can play," Tierney said. "This is the first year we've bad that problem." Just three seniors — only one of whom starts — played for the 1991 Tigers, which finished with the third ranking in the country.

With so much offensive depth present on the current squad, Tierney targeted his efforts on shoring up the defense. Tierney chased three recruits for that purpose and managed to ac-

Princeton Women's Crew Won't Be In Ohio Saturday to Defend Its Title

The race isn't until this Saturday, but you can make book on the Princeton varsity women's crew not repeating as national champions.

Of course, anyone who bets the other way doesn't know the whole story. Although they bad qualified to go, all expenses paid, the Tigers won't be in Cincinnati to defend the title they won last June.

Undefeated this spring in all its races, except the Eastern sprints May 19, coach Dan Roock's crew elected not to make the trip, even though it would have qualified for the competition and funding on the basis of its second-place finish in the sprints at Worcester.

"Naturally, I'm pretty disappointed with the decision," Roock commented earlier this week. "I would have liked a chance to race against Boston University again." The Terriers, who did not lose a race this spring, nipped Old Nassau at Worcester.

"The Nationals have been set a week later this year," Roock pointed out. (They were moved to the new date and time to coincide with the men's.) "We would have had to train at least once a day, twice when we could swing it, right through finals, and the week leading up to graduation. Two or three of the seniors felt they didn't have the energy and the gumption to do that. They all had been through it before, and felt this wasn't a new challenge for them."

It would have been for Roock. The first-year coach replaced Curtis Jordan as head of women's crew when Jordan moved over to coach the men. Last year Jordan's varsity boat also lost a couple of seniors to other pursuits before the nationals, but filled in with replacements from the second varsity boat. In a memorable race on Lake Wingora in Madison, Wisconsin, rowed as darkness fell on a Sunday evening, the Tigers beat Harvard by two seconds.

Next spring, Princeton may not be in a position to decide whether it will go to the Nationals or not. Roock loses six seniors from his first boat, and will have to rebuild around hold-overs, Fay Hanley in bow; Laura Dalston, No. 2 seat; and Sophie Glen, No. 4 seat.

Still, Roock is optimistic about next year. "The jayvee boat improved tremendously during the spring, and has a lot of sophomores in it," he reported. "And our novice boat won its division in the sprints."

But for this year, for sure, Princeton will not have an opportunity for another national title. For some Princeton women, winning isn't everything.

Here's an unbelievable fact ... Of all players who played in 500 or more games in big league baseball history, the one who has the highest lifetime batting average is NOT any famous hitter you might think of first ... It's a PITCHER ... Terry Forster, wbo pitched in 614 games in the majors from 1971 to 1986, has a lifetime batting average of .397 (31 hits in 78 at bats) — and no other major league player appearing in 500 or more games in history has ever topped that!

quire all three. The first is Todd Higgins (Port Washington, N.J.), who plays defensive midfielder and whom Tierney compared to Tiger junior Mike Mariano. At defenseman, Tierney landed two big men — 6-3 Nick Lane (Garden City, N.Y.) and 6-4 Josh Miller (Baltimore).

Two other players from this year's recruiting class are likely to see significant playing time. Jay Quayle is a speedster who can play attack or midfield. Scott Conklin (West Genessee, N.Y.) is a good scorer whom Tierney will groom as the eventual replacement for junior scoring machine Justin Tortolani.

Baseball, the other major Princeton spectator sport to advance to the postseason, looks to have a solid influx of talent into the team that won the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League title. Ten players were recruited to play for Old Nassau, and O'Connell predicts seven should be in the dugout when the Tigers open their title defense next spring.

O'Connell cited two primary needs in his recruiting efforts: stabilizing the pitching and obtaining a power hitter to replace senior Richey Nash. As for pitching, righthander Zach Perry (Kentfield, Cal.) heads a list of five solid hurlers who will arrive in September. Perry also can play first base.

O'Connell expects Coleman Karleski (Pittsburgh), his "most outstanding" prospect, to fill Nash's cleats. Karleski was a member of the Junior Olympic team last summer and will probably qualify for the team this year as well. Another interesting prospect is catcher Dylan Jones (Van Nuys, Cal.), whom O'Connell calls "one of the best catchers ever brought in here."

Last Year's Recruits

Football is the one sport in the Ivy League where no recruits can have an immediate impact because fresbman cannot play varsity football. Thus, it is last year's recruits, particularly star runner Keith Elias, who will look to aid the varsity this season. Still, there are some standout recruits this year who should affect the scheme of things in future years.

Head coach Steve Tosches highlighted four players as the cream of the 1991 crop. Andy Mims (Jacksonville, Fla.) and Carl Teter (College Park, Md.) should help either the offensive or defensive lines. Mims turned down partial scholarships from Maryland and Vanderbilt, while Teter started for DeMatba Catholic High, ranked first nationally by USA Today. Defensive back Jonathan Reid (Arlington, Texas) and quarterback Brett Huckelridge (Cleveland Heights, Ohio) should also be heard from down the road. A dropback signal-caller, Huckelridge is 6-2, 205 pounds.

Higgins is bringing in one of his largest groups of bockey recruits in years. Ten players will vie for the opportunity to wear the Orange and Black at Baker next season, beadlined by forward Ian Sharp (Oshawa, Ontario). Sharp was pursued by a few scholarship-touting Hockey East schools, but chose Old Nassau instead.

One goaltender, Roderick York (Scarborough, Ontario), will challenge current sophomore Craig Fiander and freshman Eric Robertsen for the chance to replace seniors Ron High and Mark Salsbury in the Princeton net.

Princeton High Searches For Lacrosse Opponents

Probably, the only thing worse than losing in sports would be not having any teams to play.

For the immediate future, not having enough opponents is the prospect facing the Princeton High girls' lacrosse team and athletic director Carol Parsons. The Little Tigers found themselves outside looking in last week when the existing Garden State League, comprised mainly of schools in the northern part of the state (Princeton was the lone member school from Mercer County) reorganized into the Tri-County League embracing Sussex, Morris and Union counties.

Left out in the cold were the Little Tigers. Ironically, Princeton High coach Joyce Jones was one of the founders of the Garden State League five years ago.

Parsons, who is currently in the process of trying to find out what kind of a schedule she can get for the 1991 Little Tiger team, reports that she wasn't even invited to the May 3 reorganizing meeting at Millburn High School. She found out about it when Montville athletic director Colleen Rafter called her to confirm that Princeton High had been excluded at the meeting. Rafter was concerned about the absence of PHS, she told Parsons, "but no one else cared."

"Getting into the league is not the biggest thing with us," commented Parsons. "We don't want to be in a league where every game is up north and we're constantly on the road. Winning a league title like that would have no meaning for us. We still want to play teams in our area."

Traditional area schools include West Windsor, Hopewell Valley, Princeton Day School, Peddie and Lawrenceville. Parsons also reported last week that she has been able to re-schedule new league member Summit High again.

Still, a half dozen teams is not an acceptable number, which is why Parsons is calling all the athletic directors in the new league to try to get a "decent schedule" for PHS. As presently constructed, the Tri-County League has two divisions: The Stars comprised of Madison, Chatham, Summit, Millburn and Montville and The Stripes comprised of Columbia, Montclair, Morristown, West Essex and West Morris Central. Columbia, Montclair, Chatham, Summit, and Montville were all on the Little Tigers' 1990 schedule that just ended.

Parson's goal is to put together a schedule without being tied down to the new league. If she can't, then the school will have to seek out the league officials to see what they can do for Princeton, she said. If not, then Princeton High would be forced to pursue other matters.

Said Parsons, "What I had hoped they were going to do is what they did with the boys' league."

All the boys' lacrosse teams throughout the state are in one league that has four divisions, the divisions divided roughly by a school's performance level. The girls' league, stated Parsons, has been very unstructured.

Rafter, elected president of the new league, appears to be sympathetic to Princeton

High's problem. "When Carol officially responds that she wants Princeton to get into the league, I will do what I can. For the good of the sport it would be unfair to leave them out."

Anthony Mark, athletic director at Chatham, was quoted as saying Princeton High was omitted from the league because of financial reasons. "It wasn't because they [the member schools] didn't like Princeton."

3-Way Tie for Second As Ficarro's Wins Two

Trouncing Larkin's Gulf 15-1 Thursday and stopping its old nemesis Dot's Girls, 8-3, two days earlier, the Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body climbed into a three-way tie for second place in the Mercer County Women's Softball League. Ficarro's, Three Seasons and Mercer Spring are all bunched at 9-4, four games back of unbeaten Grove Plumbing.

In its next start, Ficcaro's will meet Roberts Landscaping on Thursday at 6:30 on Mercer Park's Field 3. It draws a second-round bye on Tuesday.

It was hot and humid for the Larkin contest but the Ficarro club was even hotter. It sent 13 batters to the plate in the first inning as it plated seven runs on four hits and six walks. "They walked eight and we made them pay for it," said Ficarro manager Bob Smyth. When Ficarro's scored seven more runs in the third, the game was stopped after five innings under the ten-run rule.

Winning pitcher Carol Ann Mazzella pitched a strong game, yielding seven hits. Debbie Smyth led Ficarro's attack with three hits in three appearances while Grace Durland was three-for-four. Karen Wagner had a big day with the bat. She had two hits, including a triple, drove in two runs and scored three.

Earlier, Ficarro's had squared off against an old nemesis, Dot's Girls, which had defeated the Red and Black again, 10-5, earlier this year. "This time," said Smyth, "the story was different." Ficarro's handled Dot's, 8-3.

"The interesting thing was Dot's had 17 hits — they were still hitting the ball a ton," observed Smyth, "but they left 12 on base." The victors banged out 14 hits, but, more importantly, they combined their attack with several defensive gems. One was a three-player relay initiated by Dee Dee Prickett that nipped a runner at third. Doreen Romanchuk and Cindy Lombardo both turned base hits into outs by gunning down the Dot batter at second base.

Wagner wielded the hot bat for Ficarro's with three hits in four at bats. Beth Ault, Lombardo, Romanchuk and Durland contributed a pair of hits each.

In its previous start, Ficarro's had faced unbeaten Grove. Through five innings in the key contest each team had scored a run. Grove broke the 1-1 tie in the sixth with two runs off two hits and two Ficarro errors. In the seventh, Grove put the game away with three more runs and two more errors by the collapsing Ficarro defense to make it a 6-1 final.

"Errors did us in," said Smyth, "that and the fact that we didn't hit." The lone bright spot for the losers was Ault's two-for-three performance at the plate.

Williams Alive, Khalaf Out

While school sports has ended at Princeton High, two performers were still active during the weekend.

In track, hurdler Brian Williams finished fifth in both the Group II 110 hurdles and 400 hurdles in the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association's state meet in South Plainfield Saturday to advance to this weekend's Meet of Champions.

Williams' time of 14.94 in the 110 was only .41 of a second off the winning time of 14.53 by Rob Allen of Buena. Dwight Morrow of Hampton won the 400 in 55.01, while Williams was clocked in 57.47. "I was hoping to be in the top five so I could go on," said Williams.

The same day, Princeton High's top tennis player, George Khalaf, was eliminated in a first-round match of the NJSIAA state tennis tournament at Mercer Park.

Matched against Livingston High's No. 2 Michael Schonbraun, Khalaf, whose forte is keeping the ball in play, won the first set, 7-5, but dropped the second, 2-6. The third set was tied at 2-2 before Khalaf broke Schoenbraun's serve to take a 3-2 lead. Schoenbraun broke right back, however, and won three of the next four games to close out the match, 6-4.

There is always next year for Khalaf, who is a junior.

Special Road Trip Set For Hun Basketball Team

This is one road trip the Hun basketball team won't mind taking.

In what coach Kevin Long described as a fantastic trip, five members of the Hun varsity and three from the previous year's team are going to spend two weeks this month in Cavona, Italy.

---

"It's in an awful location," said Long, his tongue firmly in place against his cheek. Cavona, a city of 79,000, is on the northwest coast of Italy. The French border is 30 miles away, the French Riviera less than 50.

The Hun team is being sponsored by the Italian Sports Federation, the country's amateur sports governing body, Cavona and two smaller towns. "It won't cost the kids a dime," said Long. In exchange, the Hun players, Long, and assistant coach Frank Rizzo will conduct basketball camps for Italian teenage players.

"I don't think the kids know yet how challenging it will be," said Long. The Hun contingent will run basketball camps during the day, he said, demonstrating all the intricate aspects of the game for Italian coaches. In addition, each Hun player will serve as a counselor and, together with an Italian coach, will coach a team. The Raiders will also get to play several Italian club teams.

"Obviously, it is a great opportunity," said Long. "We're looking forward to it. It is, he agreed, "almost unbelievable what's happening."

Leave June 12th

The team will leave Kennedy Airport on June 12 and return the 26th. They will have three or four days at either end of the trip for sightseeing, said Long.

Including Long, none of the players, with the exception of Andy Aldi, has ever been to Europe. "It's going to be fantastic," said Long. "It's going to be hard work but we may never get another experience like it."

Players making the trip from the 1990-91 Hun team that compiled a 25-8 record, competed in 11 tournaments, reached the finals in ten and won six, are Deon Hames and RaShawne Glenn — two premier guards who both passed the 1,000-point plateau as juniors — team captain Mike Williams, the lone senior, sophomore Courtney Fitch and junior guard Aldi. From the Hun team the previous year that set a school record for the number of wins in a season with a 29-4 record, are Greg Cygan, Ted Curvy and Mike D'Allegro.

Italian Connection

How did this dream trip come about? There was an Italian connection.

"We have been working on this the last two years," said Long. "We were hoping it would come together last year." This year it came to fruition, he explained, through Andy Aldi Sr., a resident of Colts Neck, who has a connection through a relative with the Italian Sports Federation. Mr. Aldi, he added, is also a close friend of George Johnson, a former 6-10 professional player in the National Basketball Association who ended his 14-year career with the Clippers. "He gave us a marquee name that really opened the door for us," said Long. "He'll give lectures and help out."

Jim Higgins Out as Princeton University Hockey Coach

In the face of mounting pressure, coming mainly from a majority of his own players, Jim Higgins has resigned as Princeton University's hockey coach. A search for a new coach is expected to begin immediately.

For the past few years, the tightly-knit group of diehard Baker Rink fans, who follow the up and mostly down fortunes of the sport here, have debated whether a new coach could improve upon the long string of losing seasons. Some felt, as the southern-most school in the east playing the sport, Princeton was always going to be at a competitive disadvantage, and Higgins could not be expected to produce winning teams.

His detractors pointed out that the raw talent was there season after season, but Higgins could not turn it into a cohesive unit, capable of playing solid hockey even two nights in a row. In 14 seasons, he never did produce a winning season, (Princeton has only had four in the last 40 years under six different coaches) coming closest in 1980-81 when the team was 12-13. Higgins' overall record was 130-218-21.

Just two years ago, the Tigers were 11-10-1 in ECAC Division I play, and 12-14-2 overall. Higgins got the Orange and Black into post-season play three times, but it was 0-5 in playoff contests. The 5-1 home loss to Yale in 1990 after two regular season victories over the Elis was particularly galling.

Higgins was known as a tough coach to play for, and reports surfaced now and again of some of the verbal abuse players were subjected to. Many coaches, including the beloved Pete Carril, are known for their tirades, but there apparently was a general and continuing dissatisfaction among the players with Higgins' coaching methods.

When this past season ended in typical disappointing fashion after a promising start (including a win over Harvard for the first time in eight years), the talk of replacing Higgins intensified among alumni and fans. On May 2, The Daily Princetonian ran a lengthy article detailing the criticism.

"Recent Princeton hockey alumni, many of whom were four-year letter winners under Higgins, have expressed dissatisfaction with the program," wrote Prince hockey writer Aarif Khakoo. "In addition, parents of current players have sharply criticized the program, some going so far as to contact several school administrators.

"Current players have showed unhappiness with the program. In an informal Prince poll of 16 members on the 1990-91 team, 15 felt that the coach should be replaced," Khakoo wrote. "(Higgins) breaks your morale and it trickles down from there," Khakoo quoted one player as saying.

The Prince article also gave some damaging examples of Higgins' conduct towards people other than players during trips taken by the Tigers.

Alumni dissatisfaction with coaches can be deflected; it is to be expected in cases of losing teams. But the athletic department is much more likely to listen to the players who participate in the program. This ultimately is what got the attention of athletic director Robert Myslik, and led to Higgins' departure.

School Library Journal's review of the new edition said that, "Hill's story is as true and telling as when it was first published (Holt, 1967)," and praises the illustrations as being "infused with light and warmth."

Richard Ullman, professor of public and international affairs at the Woodrow Wilson School, is the author of Securing Europe, published by Princeton University Press.

Prof. Ullman's aim in writing was to examine the effects on European security of the upheaval in the Soviet bloc during 1989-90 that resulted in the liberation of Eastern Europe and the reunification of Germany. These changes have removed the likelihood of war among the major European states and offer the brightest opportunity in centuries for securing an enduring peace, he says.

However, he thinks Europe will not be free from conflict. During the decades ahead, there will undoubtedly be violent conflicts within some European states and even perhaps between neighboring states. But he maintains that powerful and relatively new forces ensure that those hostilities will remain narrowly confined and will not lead to war between Europe's major states.

Prof. Ullman recommends and outlines a new "security architecture" that he says could build on the emerging realities of East-West cooperation and replace or transform NATO, an organization he says is likely to atrophy for lack of an expansionist Soviet Union on which to focus.

He concludes his book with a glance at a possible dividend of the melting of the Cold War — a chance to turn resources and attention to Third World poverty and other long-neglected imperatives. Prof. Ullman, an analyst of international relations, began the book late in 1989 after observing the sweeping transformations in Eastern Europe.

PRINCETON JUNIOR SCHOOL

In our school we are good
And our desks are made of wood.
My desk is not a place to rest
It's a place to work my best.
Magic book I like to do—
multiplying I like too.

We believe that academic excellence later in life is largely due to an enthusiasm for learning inspired during the early years when a child's motivation is high and his/her chances for success are good. Students in our program in no way leave childhood behind for the sole purpose of intellectual growth. Rather, they celebrate the special gifts of their age: curiosity, flexibility, spontaneity, will, and wonder.

SOME REALTORS BRING BUYERS FROM AROUND THE CORNER...

We Bring Buyers From Around The World.

The more buyers who see your home, the greater your chances of selling it at the price you want. While all Realtors say they recognize that, not all of them are capable of doing something about it.

We are. We're supported by 41,000 active sales agents working in 1,900 offices throughout North America. And while many real estate offices have only loose affiliation with independent relocation companies, we're backed by two company-owned relocation companies. They're our link to buyers all over the world.

So if you're thinking of selling your home and want more buyers, call us at the number below. Our office is in Princeton, but we'll go to the end of the earth for you.

ANOTHER "GREAT ESTATE"

Just Listed

In the rolling hills of Princeton Township on a large beautifully wooded property this country manor house has been built to the owner's most exacting standards.

A touch of Tudor, a taste of contemporary and an ample serving of drama make this one of Princeton's most exciting and unique residences.

The sweeping Belgian block bordered driveway leads to the imposing limestone entrance and on to a spectacular marble-floored entrance hall with twin circular staircases leading to the second floor gallery which overlooks both hall and great room — a wonderful setting for a magnificent party or dance. In addition to the dramatic great room, with its tall windows and stone fireplace, there are beautifully proportioned formal living room and dining room with fireplaces, library with magnificent panelling and marble fireplace, media room or informal lounge with glass doors for sound control, dramatic breakfast room with doors to porch, state-of-the-art kitchen with enormous central island and beautiful huge box windows overlooking the grounds, powder room with onyx floor and full bathroom. The second floor features dramatic cathedral-height master bedroom (marble fireplace), spectacular master bathroom with bay and box windows looking into the trees, Jacuzzi, marble shower, two huge walk-in closets and more, two children's rooms with spiral staircases up to private lofts and double guest room, second floor study with wet bar and private sunning balcony, and two more full baths. The lower level has large playroom "party pub" with tiled floor and carpeting, tiled tables and booths and bar, as well as very large mirrored exercise room carpeted and equipped with storage wall. Of course there is a large laundry room.

Connected by a covered walk the oversized three-car garage has its own half bath and a large two bedroom apartment with kitchen, living room and bathroom on the second floor. There are pages of more information about the special extras in this incredible house and we will be glad to provide you with this information when you schedule a private showing appointment only.
